

Jan Marc Berk

is Director Statistics & Information of De Nederlandsche Bank. He is also a member of the Statistics Committee of the ESCB, the Committee on Monetary, Financial and Balance of Payments Statistics of the EU, and of the board of the International Journal of Central Banking and SUERF (The European Money and Finance Forum). Previous positions include Head of Research, head of the monetary and economic policy departments of De Nederlandsche Bank, associate professor money and banking at the Free University Amsterdam and Research Fellow of the Tinbergen Institute.

His main research fields and publications in refereed journals relate to the areas of financial and monetary economics, financial institutions and financial markets. See http://www.dnb.nl/dnb/home/research/researchers/personal_pages/en/47-150114.html for homepage.

He holds a Phd in economics from Groningen University, and Masters Degrees in Macroeconomics and Financial Economics from the Erasmus University Rotterdam and Tilburg University, respectively.

May 2009